

Professor Ashutosh Tiwari
Chair in Manufacturing Informatics
Cranfield University

Bio:

Biography: Professor Ashutosh Tiwari is a Chair in Manufacturing Informatics at Cranfield University. Over the last ten years, he has established Cranfield as one of the centres of excellence in the application of computing techniques to process and product design optimisation. He has developed a strong research track record by leading (as principal investigator) 6 EPSRC projects, 3 Cranfield Innovative Manufacturing Research Centre (IMRC) projects, 4 Knowledge Transfer Partnership (KTP) projects, and several EPSRC PhD/EngD studentships and MSc projects with industry. He has published extensively in his research career with around 150 research publications as refereed journal papers, conference papers, book chapters, edited books, workshop papers and research reports. He has also successfully completed the supervision of 11 PhD/EngD theses, 6 MSc by Research theses and 50 MSc theses. Please refer to his webpage for further details: <http://www.cranfield.ac.uk/sas/aboutus/staff/tiwaria.html>